No Boon that Science has Conferred

has been fraught with greater blessings than that which has accrued to the inhabitants of malarial districts from the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The experience of many years has but too clearly demonstrated the inefficiency of quinine and other drugs to effectually combat the progress of intermittent, congestive and bilious remittent fevers, while on the other hand, it has been no less clearly shown that the use of the Bitters, a medicine congenial to the frailest constitution, and derived from purely botanic sources, affords a reliable safeguard against malarial disease, and arrests it when developed. For disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for general debility and renal inactivity, it is also a most efficient remedy. Appetite and sleep are improved by it. It expels the morbific humors from the blood, and enriches a circulation impoverished by bad assimilation.

Alaska Miners Rushing to the Yukon Country.

SAN FRANCISCO COURT NOTES

The Bowers Murder Trial—Mail from the Bottom of the Sea—A Denial from Gen. Crook—Suicide at Lewiston

SITKA, March 14, via Nanaimo, March [illegible].—The mail steamer Idaho arrived much sooner than expected. After landing freight for this place she proceeded to Silver Bay and landed the machinery for the Lake Mountain Mill and Mining company, which it is proposed to have in working order very soon.

Everybody rejoiced at the arrival of the [illegible] for Alaska, as there is considerable business for the court to settle.

The steam schooner Leo has been here and landed a cargo of general merchandise, and there was considerable whisky and gin discovered in the cargo, which was seized by the customs officials at Juneau.

At Juneau there is great excitement over the rush for the Yukon river. One hundred and twenty-five miners have left this camp for there in the last fifteen days, and about sixty more will leave in the next fifteen days. The cause of the great rush is the fitting out of eleven men with 6000 pounds of supplies by Capt. Carroll and his partner, M. W. Murray, who have had men in that country two years, and it is expected they have struck something rich. The captain was interviewed this morning by a delegation of miners, but as usual had no information to give as to the strike.

Mining on Douglas Island has been short [illegible] the first part of the month on account of cold weather, and will only ship $[illegible]000 this month.

[illegible] on the Bears' Nest mine [illegible] rock, but the owners of the mine are [illegible] quiet. The reason for doing this [illegible] is that they want to get up some [illegible] locations close by.

The steamer Ancon arrived here safe after a forty days' passage from Port Townsend. There was considerable anxiety as to her safety, as it was well known that the captain was not familiar with Alaskan waters.

Malcolm McClure arrived at Wrangel a few days ago from the Cassiar mines, and reports that Messrs. Thibert, Moore & Co., who have been working on Mosquito creek, struck it very rich in gravel after they got down to bedrock. Several new locations have been made on Mosquito creek since the strike. The winter has been very cold in Cassiar, the thermometer standing at 35 below for [illegible]. The weather in the territory has been stormy. The steamship Idaho was thirty hours in a snowstorm.

THE RUSH TO THE YUKON.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., March 22.—By the steamer Idaho, which arrived from Alaska to-day, came the following: Excitement over the Yukon gold mines continues to increase, and has become a regular stampede. Nothing but the Yukon is talked of, and several parties have already gone to Chilcat, and a large number more will go in on the return of the Idaho. Nothing positive is known of the new diggings, but it is rumored that parties who went in two years ago have struck bar diggings on Stewart river that yield up to $100 a day per man. The truth of this cannot be ascertained, but as everyone that has gone to the new mines [illegible], and men who came out last fall returned at once with a large outfit, there seems every reason to believe the report. People going into the new mines from Washington territory, Oregon or other places should bear in mind that the Yukon is a very expensive country to prospect. An outfit for six months, including tools, will cost $1[illegible] and will weigh 100 pounds. From Juneau to Chilcat the cost of transportation is from $10 to $15. Packing from Chilcat to the head of the lakes costs $10 per 100 pounds, and it is thought the Indians will raise it if the rush continues. In Juneau there will be work for a limited number of men during the mining season, but there will be many more than needed. Miners intending to go to the Yukon should take silver money to pay their way, as that is the only kind Indians care to take.

CALIFORNIA.

SWINDLED [illegible] HIS PARTNER.

SAN FRANCISCO, March [illegible].—Judgment for plaintiff was rendered to-day in the case of N[illegible] Wines vs. [illegible] A. Dolan, an action brought to dissolve partnership in a livery business in this city. Evidence in the case shows that plaintiff, who is recently from Nevada, on representations made him by defendant, and by statements taken from defendant's books, which had been altered to show a large amount of business done and large [illegible] credits, invested in the business $[illegible],500. Upon becoming a partner defendant Dolan commenced systematically to defraud and cheat plaintiff, having fictitious suits instituted by his friends against the copartnership. It was shown that instead of the business paying $400 per month net profit, gross receipts amounted to only $[illegible] more than expenses. Judge [illegible] ordered the partnership dissolved and plaintiff received judgment for the amount invested, $[illegible],500, and for $[illegible]00 for loss of time and services.

THE BOWERS MURDER TRIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—W. S. Ma[illegible], student of Cooper Medical college, took the stand in the Bowers murder case to-day and related his experience in taking Fellows's syrup of hypophosphites under direction of Dr. Johnson. After taking this medicine for some time he had, under instructions from Dr. Johnson, taken an emetic and delivered the contents of his stomach to that gentleman, who had submitted it to the same test given Mrs. Bowers's stomach. This was done to see if any luminosity or odor could be obtained, and neither was found, although a portion of the pure hypophosphites was afterward put into the jar and submitted to test. This evidence, it is said, breaks down one of Bowers's strong points of defense, as he expected to prove that the phosphoric conditions were due to hypophosphites the victim took during her illness.

THROWN OUT OF COURT.

SAN FRANCISCO, March [illegible].—The suit brought by Street [illegible] contractor James Dougherty against San Francisco for $[illegible] 40, for work performed for the city in 1869-70, was thrown out of the United States circuit court to-day by Judge Sawyer. Some time ago Dougherty, having small faith in his chances in the superior courts, and being himself unable to bring suit in the United States courts on account of his being a citizen of this state, transferred his claim against the city to his brother, James Dougherty, a nonresident. The latter brought suit for the above amount, alleged to be due from the city and county for work performed in grading [illegible] street from [illegible] to Dupont. Judge Sawyer, on learning the true facts of the matter, decided that the real party in the [illegible] was [illegible] prosecuting the suit, and therefore dismissed it.

MAIL FROM THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Mail clerks at the post office have had rather a disagreeable job to-day, and one that was out of the usual line, being the handling of mail that has lain for several days at the bottom of the Atlantic ocean. It is part of the [illegible] mail bound for America which went down with the wrecked steamer Oregon [illegible] days ago. Out of the mail saved eight bags contained mail for San Francisco. Four bags have been thus far received, coming just as they were taken from the vessel as she lay at the bottom of the sea. The sacks and contents were soaked with water, so that the newspapers were like so much pulp, only a few of them retaining their wrappers and address. Letters numbering 400 were so tightly stuck together that the addresses were quite illegible.

THE CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE TOOHEY.

SAN FRANCISCO, March [illegible].—Serious charges against the private and public character of Judge Toohey of the superior court were published Saturday last in a weekly paper here. Judge Toohey was asked to-day if he intended to take any steps to vindicate himself in the matter. He replied: "Yes. The only point in the article that particularly interests the public is that which alleges that I acted [illegible] illegally drawing money from the treasury. That is a matter for the grand jury to look into, and I shall ask them to do so at once. The other allegations are directed at my personal character, and I shall take my own way to deal with them. You will see what I will do about them in a few days."

THE CALL FOR [illegible].

In reference to a dispatch to the effect that President Cleveland has asked for the resignation of William R. Wheaton, register of the land office at San Francisco, Mr. Wheaton to-day stated that the only fact in the case was that Secretary Lamar had written him saying that if he should resign on account of his continued illness his resignation would be accepted. Mr. Wheaton had replied offering to resign under certain conditions, but he desired it clearly understood that if he did resign it would be because President Cleveland wanted the place for a democrat.

MINNIE HAUK IN "CARMEN."

Mapleson's Opera company opened to-night at the Grand Opera house with Minnie Hauk in Carmen. The house was filled in every part by fashionable people, anxious to see and hear the new prima donna, this being her first appearance in this city. Although quietly received she rapidly won her way to the hearts of the audience, and at the conclusion of the first act was warmly applauded.

KILLED BY A CABLE CAR.

Joseph Doyle, a newsboy, 9 years old, had his legs crushed by a cable car Saturday, his left leg being cut off by one of the car wheels. The little fellow died to-day in great suffering.

NEW STREET SUPERINTENDENT.

At a meeting of the board of supervisors held to-night Wm. Patterson was elected as successor to the late Charles S. Ruggles as superintendent of streets.

GIVEN A NEW TRIAL.

Judge Gibson of the superior court of Alameda to-day granted a motion for a new trial in the case of James Cassidy, convicted of killing William G[illegible], on the ground that the jury, unaccompanied by defendant, visited the scene of the killing.

NEWS ITEMS FROM TACOMA.

TACOMA, March [illegible].—For considerably more than a year past a gang of chicken thieves have infested this city, carrying on their business almost uninterruptedly and with impunity. It is estimated that more than [illegible]000 chickens have been stolen. For some time suspicion has rested upon a man named Johnston, who had been peddling dressed chickens about town for about half the regular market price. A watch was kept upon him, and on Saturday night he was arrested. A woman said to be his wife has since revealed the whole plot, and upon information furnished Charles Walker, Mrs. M. A. Walker, Wm. Woodward and [illegible] Davis have also been arrested. They will have a hearing to-morrow.

All the longshoremen [illegible] for $2 and board on the company's ships. The workmen say they cannot live at the old price, since work is so irregular, and the employers declare that they cannot afford to pay any more. As yet no disturbance has occurred. Seven vessels are now at the dock for lumber.

ARIZONA.

A DENIAL FROM [illegible] CROOK.

TUCSON, March [illegible].—In an interview to-day concerning the reported surrender of Geronimo and his hostiles, Gen. Crook replied that there was not one word of truth in the statement. He states that the Apaches are camped in the vicinity of the San Bernardino ranche, and that he will leave [illegible] to have a conference with them.

SUICIDE AT LEWISTON.

LEWISTON, March [illegible].—Mrs. [illegible], wife of Harry Cole, saloon keeper, was found dead this afternoon. Death is supposed to be due to the effects of morphine.

GLADSTONE AND HIS CABINET.

LONDON, March [illegible].—Radicals [illegible] Gladstone's strength in the house, not including the Parnellites, number [illegible]. This will not be sufficient to uphold the [illegible].

Chamberlain informed a correspondent that he wishes to be [illegible] desiring home rule for Ireland, but only upon the plan of the American union, which, although it left to each state control of local affairs, made all subsidiary to the general government.

John Bright [illegible] urged Gladstone [illegible] to abandon the land purchase project, and Morley made a similar appeal, declaring that to proceed with it would result in breaking up the liberal party. Gladstone promised to consider the [illegible] his decision will be [illegible] crisis [illegible].

Chamberlain has not yielded an inch, and will [illegible] Gladstone will [illegible] inevitable [illegible] endeavor [illegible] his present ministry. Although the ministers hold a variety of opinions in regard to the government's Irish [illegible] they [illegible] harmony, and all other reports of [illegible] among them are baseless.

POLITICAL NOTES.

LONDON, March [illegible].—Mr. Gladstone occupied his usual seat in the house of commons this afternoon. He appeared to be in excellent health and spirits.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer, replying to Mr. Goschen, said the government was not disposed to appoint a special committee to examine into and report upon the silver question, because the special commission which was now inquiring into the causes of the depression of trade would in all probability cover the silver question in its work.

It is affirmed this evening by persons believed to know that there has never been any foundation for the statement that Mr. Gladstone intended to ask authority to issue [illegible] in order to secure funds to carry out his scheme to buy out the landowners in Ireland.

LONDON, March [illegible].—[illegible] declared that the [illegible] the appointment of a commission of experts [illegible] the value [illegible] in Ireland, which [illegible] possession [illegible] the government [illegible]. In this way Ireland is to be made to [illegible] the entire amount paid to the landlords, together with interest, the whole sum to be repaid to the imperial treasury [illegible] within fifty years, at the end of which [illegible]. BELGIUM.

MORE ABOUT THE RIOTS.

BRUSSELS, March [illegible].—The earlier reports of the anarchist riots at Jemappe, Tilmont and Seraing, in Belgium, Saturday last, were all far short of the actual truth. A large amount of property was ruined at each place. At Liege there was an open conflict between the troops, which had been massed there for the protection of the place, and a large body of anarchists, who were marching against the town for the purpose of looting it. The fight was severe and prolonged, but finally resulted in the repulse of the anarchists. They were not driven from the field, however, until the troops charged upon them with fixed bayonets. A large number of men on both sides were injured. Six [illegible] regular troops are on duty guarding the district disturbed by the rioters on Saturday.

A New York paper has announced very solemnly that parties are stronger than presidents. Here is a party that we know of, and a president, and of these it may be said that the president has it on every fall so far.

The Knights of Labor Reply to Hoxie.

A BIG STRIKE AT KANSAS CITY

The Nebraska Desperado Shot and Burned—The Political Views of Speaker Carlisle—The Railroad War.

ST. LOUIS, March 22.—The executive committee of the local assembly of Knights is still in session discussing Hoxie's terms, but Chairman Irons says they will be rejected, as to accept them would be to abandon all their principles.

Railroad traffic here is almost at a standstill on account of the strike of over 200 switchmen. Their [illegible] has not yet been made known.

REPLY OF THE KNIGHTS.

The statement of the Knights of Labor in reply to H. M. Hoxie's letter to the governors of Missouri and Kansas was issued at a late hour to-night. Condensed it is as follows:

While in conference in Kansas City we were called by the governors, and out of respect for them a committee was appointed, consisting of employes of the Gould roads only, which met with them, and by request stated the cause of the present withdrawal of active labor from the roads of the Gould Southwest system. On their suggestion these gentlemen agreed to submit [illegible] Mr. Hoxie [illegible] a settlement if possible. The [illegible] of the governors was voluntary [illegible] the privilege of adjusting our differences or [illegible] terms of settlement without first submitting them to this committee for approval, notwithstanding which they received Hoxie's [illegible] in detail and turned them over to the press and the public before we were even permitted to see them. [illegible] to Hoxie. After careful investigation [illegible] that the Missouri Pacific [illegible] has violated the terms and conditions of the agreement made on the 15th of March, 1885, [illegible] its employes in [illegible] states. [illegible] this verdict the governors have [illegible] the fact that the obligation was signed [illegible] at that time took [illegible] operated and leased by said railway company. It was fully [illegible] oversight [illegible].

Evidence is at hand that bridge men have been [illegible] to work many hours overtime without receiving the agreed overtime pay. Evidence is at hand to prove that in order to make it necessary to reduce the force of workingmen, work has been [illegible] shops, and in one instance a whole [illegible] was shut in order to bring the men under a new [illegible] system, thus depriving them of the right of arbitration, and inducing them to leave the company's employ; after which new men were employed, and always at reduced wages. Men were [illegible] short, and justice [illegible] with [illegible] to reduce hours of [illegible] to comply with the [illegible] of the company's officials with its employes. After the institution of the receivership [illegible] regardless of their agreement, [illegible] a clear intent to [illegible] of the United States courts and its officials for [illegible] purposes.

If Mr. Hoxie did not know that he was guilty [illegible] why would he refuse [illegible] and ignore an appeal for [illegible]? Why would he shelter himself behind [illegible] technicalities? Why would he refuse to treat with men [illegible] has wronged, and write letters to the governors who cannot possibly enter into the merits of the controversy? The [illegible] is simply this: Mr. Hoxie wants to enable [illegible] Gould. He is still inciting it and making an innocent public pay the price of his perfidy. How long will the public consent for Gould and Hoxie thus to rule or ruin? We wait to see.

A STRIKE AT KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—At 10 o'clock this morning a general sounding of whistles signified the inauguration of another strike. At that hour the union switchmen in every railroad yard in the city quit work and the freight business generally was stopped. The Chicago & Alton officials made up a train by the help of non-union men and sent it out, but the strikers are said to have boarded and stopped it at the eastern city limits. The Wabash is working a small force sufficient to handle the city freight, and being under the protection of the federal court have invoked the protection of the United States marshal. A mass meeting of the strikers will be held at noon. At present the cause of the strike cannot be learned. Some of the men say: "We had orders from the headquarters of the Knights of Labor." The switchmen made a general demand for an advance in wages a week ago on the various roads, but it was not granted. There are flying rumors to the effect that several other departments are to be ordered out.

THE BROADWAY STEAL.

Jaehne's Confession was Made on an Understanding with Byrnes.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The Times says of Jaehne's case that it is in a position to know that the alderman confessed everything as before published. It adds that the alderman had been engaged in the business of receiving stolen goods for nearly ten years, and this fact was known at headquarters long before Mrs. Hamilton applied to Inspector Byrnes to aid her in the recovery of her silver. The 'fence' and the detectives have been friends, and Jaehne and his operations have been well known to Inspector Byrnes. Jaehne knew Byrnes could send him to Sing Sing if he chose in very short order, and preferred to take chances on a trial for bribery, which gave him some hope of escape. He consented to make a confession which was to redound to the credit of Inspector Byrnes as a great work of detective skill, and went to Byrnes's house for that express purpose, after arranging for bondsmen to prepare to save him from being locked up. He knew just as certainly when he came down town on Thursday morning that he was to be arrested as Byrnes and his officers knew it, and his subsequent appearance in the district attorney's office and giving bail was part of the drama planned and arranged in Byrnes's house the night before.

Full details of the alderman's confession will not be known until his examination, but enough facts may be told. Jaehne is said to have been paid for every railroad franchise for which he has voted since he has been a member of the board of aldermen. It is said that no projector of railways thought of getting a franchise without paying the aldermen well. In the case of the Broadway road he received $20,000 for his vote, and the money was paid him by Alderman Delacy, who is known as his most intimate friend and companion. He did nothing in the way of voting without being paid for it, and from the character of these transactions he knew that they voted in the same manner, although he could not swear that any one but himself received a dollar.

RAILROAD NOTES.

THE PACIFIC MAIL.

SAN FRANCISCO, March [illegible].—The general [illegible] Pacific Mail [illegible] this week [illegible] it will have things its own way. This, however, is denied by railroad men. Said an agent to-day: "If the Pacific Mail goes into the fight it is going to hurt itself. Its life blood is the trade with China, and should it attempt to break railroad rates the Central Pacific, with its facilities, [could] play sad havoc with the Pacific Mail's China business by placing on a [illegible] of steamers."

The fight between the Pacific Mail and the railroads, said another railroad man, will not amount to anything except on their sailing days. Upon the days of sailing of the Pacific Mail's steamer for New York the railroads will make such a reduction that in all probability the steamers will go [illegible].

IMMENSE SHIPMENTS OF FREIGHT.

NEW YORK, March [illegible].—Your correspondent learns that recent statements to the effect that [illegible] railroads were conveying little or no freight [illegible] the following list [illegible] week ending February [illegible] week ending March [illegible] week ending March 13 [illegible] tonnage is the largest on record in the memory of the oldest railway men here. Last week trucks engaged in conveying Sunset line freight to the Morgan line of steamers stretched a distance of four blocks down Broadway [illegible]. Railroad men say that in June and July there won't be any freight left in New York to ship.

WILL NOT ISSUE A SCHEDULE.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The Pacific Mail company will not issue any schedule of rates publicly, but it will privately notify leading shippers that the Pacific Mail is prepared to take freight at lower rates than are obtainable from any other company. President Houston says their new schedule of rates to be announced to-morrow will be $[illegible] per saloon and $[illegible] for steerage passage from New York to San Francisco. "We can give no [illegible] schedule of freight rates," he said, "but are going to get freight if possible."

PASSENGER RATES ADVANCED.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—As a result of the demand of the Iowa lines that their allowance of $1.50 be restored, rates were advanced all round to-day. Their allowance on through tickets since the war began has heretofore been $5. The following are the [illegible]: Omaha and Kansas City, $1[illegible]; Chicago and St. Louis, $17.50; New York, $2[illegible]; Boston, $34.50. Emigrant, Omaha and Kansas City, $1[illegible]; Chicago and St. Louis, $1[illegible]; New York, $29.50; Boston, $31.50.

THE VIEWS OF SPEAKER CARLISLE.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Speaker Carlisle, in an interview here said: "Indications are that it is not possible to pass a bill absolutely suspending silver coinage through either branch of congress. If coinage is suspended it will be because some concession has been made to the silver producers which they regard as an equivalent to coinage. On the other hand, I do not believe it is possible to pass through the house or the senate a bill for free coinage. Indications are therefore that the subject will be left right where it is, without any change in the present law."

Continuing, the speaker said: "It is more difficult to say what will come of the tariff question. The subject is a very intricate one. There will be an effort to pass a tariff bill, that much is certain. The administration is getting along very well, except as to the silver question. I do not think any considerable number of democrats either in the house or the senate or elsewhere are disposed to break with the president on the subject of patronage. While there has been great disappointment [illegible] the general feeling among democrats is [illegible] only on a question of principle would they be warranted in breaking with the president."

STEINITZ [illegible] ZUKERTORT.

NEW ORLEANS, March 22.—The eighteenth game of the chess tournament began at 1 P. M. to-day, with the Ruy Lopez opening. Herr Steinitz had the white men, and Dr. Zukertort the black. Zukertort resigned on his fortieth move. [illegible] hours and 15 minutes; Zukertort 1 hour [illegible] minutes. The score now stands: Steinitz [illegible], Zukertort [illegible]. The play will be resumed Wednesday. According to the original terms of the contest, if the games should stand 9 to 9, it was to be a draw. In St. Louis the number by agreement was reduced to 8 to make a draw. Steinitz therefore now contends that he cannot lose.

SHIPPING FRUIT TO CALIFORNIA.

CHICAGO, March [illegible].—In an interview a Burlington freight official said: "We are shipping fruit to California. Does it sound strange—shipping fruit to the land of fruit? Our shipments are confined [illegible]. [illegible] have shipped also [illegible] five car loads to San Francisco since [illegible]. These figures are [illegible] from Oregon, where the supply is [illegible]. [illegible] car loads of [illegible] went to California over the Burlington in the past two weeks, something never known before. The general volume of freight has increased [illegible] since the present rates were established [illegible] the increase."

THE NEBRASKA DESPERADO SHOT AND BURNED.

[illegible] County, March [illegible].—The siege of the desperado in [illegible] county ended by the burning of the barn in which he had intrenched himself. During the fire he fired a succession of shots into the crowd, who returned the fire and shot him in the head. After the fire the body was found partly burned.

The murderer was buried in a contiguous cornfield. The crowd was bent on taking the charred [illegible] corpse and feeding it to hogs. The sheriff had hard work in resisting the crowd and securing to the prisoner's human [illegible]. The desperado's revolver was found [illegible] and proves to be a good six-shooter, double acting Colt's, [illegible] calibre, ivory handle, with the head of a Texas cow engraved on it. Johnson's barn, in which the murderer took refuge, is completely destroyed with its contents. Fine valuable herd of [illegible] horses and three cows were burned in the barn and shed. A great deal of grain was also destroyed. The barn and contents were valued at $[illegible], which it is supposed the county will pay, [illegible] the amount will be raised by private contribution.

JAEHNE RE-ARRAIGNED.

NEW YORK, March [illegible].—Alderman Jaehne spent the night in a cell at police headquarters and this morning was taken down to the district attorney's office and later into the court of general sessions, where he was arraigned on an indictment charging him with bribery on two counts. The prisoner was [illegible] until Wednesday to enter his plea. The amount of bail was fixed at $[illegible].

THE FIRE RECORD.

THE GAS FIRE SMOTHERED.

PITTSBURG, March 22.—The fire at the Murraysville gas well was effectively extinguished to-day by means of an immense smokestack, which was placed over the pipe, and the flames smothered. The air about town is impregnated with gas, but no serious results are apprehended.

RAILROAD TRESTLE BURNED.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 22.—About 2 o'clock this morning the north bound Iron Mountain railway passenger train was stopped at a trestle two miles south of Little Rock, owing to the discovery that the trestle was burning. It was soon destroyed, and the train was unable to proceed further.

ACCIDENTS.

TWENTY MEN BURIED.

POTTSVILLE, March 22.—A terrible accident occurred this morning in the tunnel of the Pottsville & Mahanoy railroad at Horseshoe curve, outside the city. Shortly after the day shift went in a tremendous fall of top rock took place, burying twenty workmen, mostly Italians. James Wright and Italian workmen to the number of five were killed outright and several were injured.

SOME PERTINENT INQUIRIES.

PORTLAND, March 22.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Several Portland citizens interested in Burrard inlet, B. C., are desirous of obtaining information from Mr. A. W. Jones, of the firm of Crosdale & Jones, real estate agents, etc., of Victoria, B. C., now staying at the Esmond hotel, who by his advertisement in THE OREGONIAN expresses a willingness to submit plans, maps, etc., of the terminal city of Vancouver, B. C., Canadian Pacific railway. If Mr. Jones will kindly answer the following questions through the medium of the press he will greatly oblige:

1. Have the railway syndicate ever advertised Coal Harbor as the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railroad?

2. By what authority do you announce the terminal city of Vancouver at Coal Harbor?

3. Where is Vancouver? Does the name embrace all of Burrard inlet, as Mr. Van Horne said the terminus did, or is it confined to one locality? Please give authority.

4. Is the roadway connecting Port Moody with Coal Harbor yet commenced? If not, will it be so commenced within a reasonable time or will it ever be commenced?

5. We have understood that the contracts for construction of the extension from Port Moody to Coal Harbor are awarded conditionally, [illegible] if the road is to be built the lowest tenders would [illegible] the work. Is this so? MANY CITIZENS.

VARIOUS OPINION.

Macon Telegraph (Dem.): That Mr. Cleveland has been constantly in the hands of unworthy and designing men is a fact well known.

Kansas City Journal: The doctrine of the so-called Knights of Labor as exemplified by the recent proceedings of leaders is in strict keeping with the worst forms of tyranny in the darkest periods of history.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Reasons why the Morrison tariff bill should not become a law are plentiful enough. One is that the vast majority of people in the United States do not want such a law. Other reasons will be filed when this one has been disposed of.

Harper's Weekly (Mug.): The democratic party is throwing away its advantage and discarding its policy. The president's course has not yet united his party. The democratic party has not won the confidence of the friends of sound finance or of civil service reform.

Philadelphia Press: George William Curtis is satisfied with the administration. We infer from this that if Mr. Curtis went into a restaurant and ordered a quail on toast and got a plate of stewed veal instead of it he would be content, consoling himself with the thought that the waiter meant all right.

Chicago Tribune: When it is borne in mind that Bishop Oberly has for some years been the manager of democratic politics in Illinois, chairman of the committee of which Joe Mackin, now in the penitentiary, was the adviser, and that Mr. Oberly has [illegible] a reputation the very opposite of that of a mere spoilsman, the nature of his appointment as civil service commissioner will be apparent.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Logan submitted the following resolution and asked that it might be printed and lie over, saying he would call it up on some future day and submit some remarks on it:

Resolved, That the sessions of the senate commonly known as executive sessions, so far as they apply to nominations, confirmations or rejections, shall hereafter be held with open doors, and that a public record of the same shall be kept, the same as of legislative sessions.

The resolution was ordered printed, and to lie over.

The chair laid before the senate Logan's bill to increase the efficiency of the army. Logan, at the suggestion of the secretary of war, moved for some further amendments of detail to the bill, and they were agreed to.

The chair laid before the senate the judiciary committee resolution, and Colquitt took the floor in opposition to the majority report. The only object he could see that was to be subserved by the adoption of the resolutions reported by the majority of the committee was to place on record and perpetuate the malice of that majority.

AN UNDERSTANDING REACHED.

The Senate Committee on Finance will Advise Confirmation of Several Nominations.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Tribune's Washington special: The senate committee on finance has agreed to report favorably two nominations for internal revenue collectors in New York, two in Missouri, three in Ohio and one in Iowa. These were all cases in which the persons removed were willing that their successors should be confirmed, as they did not care to resume office. This action was brought about by Senators Cockrell and Beck. Senator Morrill, chairman of the committee, said that it was willing to report such nominations whenever the administration would relieve suspended officers from any imputation against their character, or, if there were such charges against them, to permit an answer to be made in each case. Beck went to see the president about the matter, and he said he was ready to give such assurances in cases where no charges were made, and he appeared anxious to talk with Morrill on the subject. This was followed by a visit from Morrill, who was closeted with Secretary Manning. This official gave satisfactory assurances, said to be in the form of a letter, that no charges which affected the character of the suspended officials were on file in the department. One of the cases included by Secretary Manning is that of Samuel J. Tilden Jr., who was appointed in place of James S. Smart. The president thus acknowledges that Smart was removed for political reasons only.

NOTES OF INTEREST TO OREGON.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Coos bay had a narrow escape in the river and harbor committee, although the full Oregon delegation, in their addresses to the committee on Oregon appropriations, had urged liberal attention to Coos bay, as well as other points. Outside efforts are presumed to have influenced some of the committee in favor of taking from this point and concentrating on others, and nothing was understood to be allowed for this important point. Congressman Hermann made a personal appeal to members of the committee and urgently begged them not to ignore Coos bay. They reconsidered their action and have allowed $35,000 for this work, and Mr. Hermann is confident the senate will add $15,000 more.

Senator Dolph introduced a bill to-day in the senate to allow the Northwestern Trading company, a private organization organized under the laws of Oregon, to purchase certain lands in the territory of Alaska.

Senator Mitchell introduced a bill authorizing the city of Salem to construct a bridge across the Willamette river, and also a bill for relief of Herman Baumhager.

THE PACIFIC MAIL SUBSIDY.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The secretary of the interior has written a letter to the secretary of the treasury calling his attention to contracts made between the land grant Pacific railroads and the Pacific Mail steamship company. By these contracts $500,000 was paid the steamship company by the railroads, which amount the secretary of the interior contends should have been included in the net earnings of the road, 25 per cent of which is due the government annually. The secretary of the treasury is asked, if he concurs in the opinions of the secretary of the interior, to take legal action against the companies to recover the money. The papers in the case will be laid before the attorney general, who, it is expected, will soon order suit to be brought.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The supreme court has rendered a decision in the Mackin-Gallagher case that the crimes charged against the defendant are infamous within the meaning of the constitution, and the defendants cannot be held to answer in the courts of the United States otherwise than by the presentment of an indictment by the grand jury. The effect of this decision is to send the case back to the lower court to be proceeded with by a grand jury indictment instead of by information. It does not affect the sentence of five years which Mackin is now serving in the penitentiary for perjury.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, MAR 23, 1886.

BEGINNING TO SEE IT

A letter to THE OREGONIAN from Whatcom W. T., published yesterday, said "An exodus is at present going on from this point of working men—destination, British Columbia. This time it is not the Chinese. And the expelling cause now is necessity. An investigation will show that there is not a mill, mine, factory, store, shop, or establishment of any kind on Bellingham bay giving steady employment to a single man."

The Whatcom paper, whose editor is under indictment with others for inciting outrages upon the Chinese, adds in the last issue of his paper sundry dark lines to this doleful picture. And he seems, too, to be partially recovering his senses, for he says "On Puget sound there are too many who came with the boom to get a living without work men who prefer to win wealth rather than create it. It is not pretended that the Chinese were doing this. They were assailed just because they do work for a living. Again "We annually send out of the country thousands of dollars for bacon, in face of the fact that pork should be exported from this county. The fleece of our own sheep goes to Massachusetts, and after returning to us in woolen goods, we pay the freight both ways and buy, meanwhile grand water power runs to waste." Is this the fault of the Chinese? And will the expulsion of Chinese remedy it? Once more "The fact that we paid $600 two years ago for town lots now worth four bits proves that we then had more coin than judgment. The lots are now as valuable as then, but we have sent the money out of the country for flour, clothes and whisky." So then the Chinaman, who has "sent money out of the country," is not the only sinner. And finally "It is very apparent that there is something radically wrong. There are two many bread winners dependent upon factories and corporations for support, two few who possess lands and homes of their own where they can live independent and enjoy the fruits of their own labor." Something still "radically wrong," though you are rid of the Chinese, whose presence you thought the capital evil? It would seem from the above statements that the Chinese were about the only people in that country who were doing any work. One would think, therefore, that the stagnation that has followed their departure was sufficiently explained. Surely it was not the Chinese who were preventing men from "taking lands and making homes of their own." No, it is plainly a want of spirit for labor and home building, for as the Whatcom paper says "Non-producers are vainly endeavoring to pluck somebody—there is no fun on a toad." Now since they have robbed and expelled the Chinese and can find no other prey they "light out" for British Columbia.

So the persecutors of Chinese at Puget sound have found out that the presence of Chinese was not the cause of the "hard times" of which they complained. After compelling the Chinese to "go," under the foolish and ignorant notion that they could then get plenty of work at good wages, they find nothing for themselves to do, and are compelled to "go," too. This result at Puget sound is precisely what was foretold, when the agitation for expulsion of the Chinese began. But men blind with ignorance and passion wouldn't listen to it.

And yet nothing could have been more simple or clear. The greater part of the labor done by Chinese is labor in its rudest, roughest, and most primitive forms. For such labor high wages cannot be paid. But as a consequence of getting this kind of labor performed at low rates, employers were able to pay more wages to white men in advanced employments. It is apparent that when labor in the ruder occupations is cut off, the branches of labor that require more skill will suffer, because their foundation is labor in its ruder forms. This was proven at Seattle immediately after the expulsion of the Chinese from the coal mines. Chinese were employed to assort the coal and load the cars, and the white miners were paid more wages simply because of Chinese cheap labor. But when the Chinese were driven away the mine owners couldn't afford to put white men in their places at high wages, the whole industry in consequence was suspended, and the white miners, who had driven away the Chinese, no longer could get anything to do themselves.

In the Eastern states, where the principles of industry and business are well understood, the whole economical conditions of such problems as this of ours are entirely clear. Thus the Springfield (Mass.) Republican says: "Whatever hold manufacturing may have on the Pacific coast is directly due to Chinese cheap labor. There is no poetry in this statement, but any amount of history, and the anti-coolie leagues which have adopted a policy of violent and sudden expulsion, will have to deal not with federal authority alone, but with a simple matter of profit and loss." Again: "In many of the infant branches of manufacture upon the Pacific coast the Chinese have been working for small wages so that white laborers may have high wages. To shut out the cheap labor suddenly brings the workingmen before three contingencies. They must either divide this burden among themselves by submitting to a reduction, or run the cost of production up so high as to admit eastern made goods, or else stop work altogether." Here, in a few words, is a statement that covers the whole case and leaves nothing to be said. It is the competition of the products of Eastern [illegible] far more than the presence of the Chinese that prevents white men from getting employment [illegible] wages [illegible] there.

The appointment of Bishop Cheney [illegible] as a civil service commissioner is spoken of by the Chicago press as a grave [illegible]. Oberly is chairman of the Illinois democratic state committee, and has been associated with jobbery in its worst phases for many years. The Tribune says of him: "He is a spoilsman whose only plea of political service is the command of patronage which it brings. He is not only an offensive partisan himself, but he has already succeeded in palming off offensive appointments in Illinois upon the president. It is needless to say that, having been a partisan partner and associate of Joe Mackin in running Illinois political machinery, he is familiar with all the ins and outs of the spoils business. He knows nothing and desires to know nothing of the merits system, and has no sympathy with an administration of the civil service such as is provided by the law or such as the president has pretended to favor in his letter of acceptance, his message, and the letter to George W. Curtis. To place such a machine spoilsman in a position where he must condemn offensive partisanism and adjudge against the very doctrines of which he is a conspicuous advocate is of course the height of absurdity."

The business activity that was promised with the beginning of the year has received a serious check by the extensive strikes now prevailing throughout the country. On the 11th of March Bradstreet's tabulation showed 50,000 workmen idle from this cause, and since this time the number has been almost doubled. An Eastern exchange says: "With so large an army of wage earners idle and transportation stopped on one great railroad system in the Southwest, it is inevitable that derangement and timidity in business circles must ensue. The sympathy of the public can safely be relied upon in cases of a real grievance among working people, but there is force in the suggestion that 'with the mill and the factory only just beginning to experience a better inquiry with products of the soil almost everywhere, South and West, selling below cost and with distress in [illegible], manufacturing and labor circles in [illegible] and the world over, one cannot think these movements timely.'"

The season of overflow on the lower Mississippi has passed without flood or disaster by crevasses. Planters are preparing to take advantage of the extraordinary promise of the season and will put in a larger crop of sugar-cane than ever before.

A WHOLESOME STIMULANT

A route for a new transcontinental railway line, or rather a continuation of the Union Pacific to the coast, is urged by newspapers of Southern Oregon. It is urged that the distance between Huntington, the present northern terminus of that line, and Coos bay is but little over 400 miles in a direct line, that the route presents few serious obstacles to railroad building, and that for at least three fourths of that distance it lies through the finest agricultural lands of the state, a section which is almost wholly unoccupied at present solely because of its isolation from market.

This plan, as elaborated by those who have a local interest in the development of Coos and Douglas counties, sees in its completion the thousands of acres of government land lying between the Cascade mountains and Huntington settled by a prosperous population, a fine inland city at Roseburg, and an active and thriving seaport at Empire City. The Coos Bay News, in urging the feasibility of the extension proposed, does not overestimate its importance when it says it would be an immediate benefit, not only to Coos and Douglas counties, but to the entire state.

The truth is, Oregon needs pretty much everything in the way of development, and among these is a network of local railways tapping the various agricultural and stock growing portions of the state and connecting them with the main lines of commerce outward bound. The transportation facilities of Southern Oregon must increase within a few years to accommodate the fruit industry of that section, which is certain to increase rapidly. The products of orchards and vineyards and gardens must have prompt and rapid transportation to market or they are a loss instead of a profit to producers. It is a mistake, founded in selfishness and fostered by petty jealousy, that sees in the development of one portion of the country an abatement of the prosperity of another section. It is not necessary, neither is it desirable, for the whole state to pay tribute in a commercial sense to a single portion. A city can be built up on Coos bay, and can become prosperous from the commerce that the opening of a new section to agriculture will create without causing the decline of Portland's prosperity. Wholesome rivalry in business is necessary. It stimulates energy, promotes activity and holds monopoly in check. The completion of the Oregon Pacific to the harbor of Yaquina has not been detrimental to the business interests of Portland. It has opened a channel relatively small, it is true, to commerce, that enables, as is claimed by the producers of the southwestern counties, to market their surplus at rates that allows them a small margin for profit. If the facilities they procured by way of river and rail to Portland, and thence to the sea, or eastward across the continent did not permit this, there was certainly no point in producing a surplus. If the Oregon Pacific has made favorable terms for farmers, stock raisers and orchardists in the region to which its operations are confined, they will produce for export, where before they contented themselves with eking along without exertion beyond what was required to supply an extremely dull local market. Portland loses nothing by the transaction so far, and if it becomes apparent that its business is in any degree menaced by activity in other directions, it must meet enterprise with enterprise and hold its own by the force of its own efforts. A stimulant of this kind, so far from inflicting injury upon the business of this city will arouse it to the exertion that only results from energetic competition.

We are glad to see the newspapers of Southern Oregon speaking up for improved transportation facilities that must, if they are realized, bring capital to that part of the state, encourage agriculture, and in due time establish industries. We should be glad to see a flourishing city upon the site of Roseburg, we should be glad to see Empire City the western terminus of the Union Pacific, with all of the prosperity and commercial activity which that would imply. The resources of the state are unbounded. They lack development in every section and in every detail. A general prosperity can only result from general industrial activity. Local prosperity is at best but a hampered thing, real enough in a small way, but without the substantial backing that makes its foundation sure and its growth steady. By all means, let every section encourage and rejoice in the prosperity of every other section of the state, certain that general prosperity is the only prosperity that is real, lasting and satisfactory. Coos bay will probably not be reached any sooner by the trains of the Union Pacific on account of the maintenance of this friendly spirit between the different sections of the state, the harbor at Yaquina may not be more rapidly deepened on account of it, local railway lines may not be built because of it, but it is a great thing for the people of different portions of a commonwealth to be in a good humor with one another. Friendly rivalry is better than inactive sullenness or outspoken animosity. More than that, it is a stimulous which alone renders general prosperity possible.

THE "OREGON" DISASTER

The sinking of the Cunard line steamship Oregon is a very notable disaster, although, happily, every one of the 8[illegible] persons on board were saved. If any one of several purely accidental circumstances had been different every person on board would have perished. That such wholesale disaster is possible is startling in this age when, relying upon the perfection of machinery and of discipline, people travel upon the sea without more concern for their personal safety than if they were within their own homes. When it is proved by an incident like this that disaster is not only possible but a thing well in the range of probability, it is not surprising that the world shudders.

The case of the Oregon shows once again how little discipline is to be trusted. [illegible] has been the most [illegible] of the Cunard line and every possible effort has been [illegible]. Yet upon a starlight night, the [illegible], when the sea was smooth, the lines and steamship of the line comes on [illegible] with a slow moving sail craft. Where was the lookout? There is no answer. The vessel was in shoal water [illegible], but the captain, instead of being in his place on the "bridge," was "somewhere below." And, when the ship was found to be sinking, the firemen seized the first boat and rudely pushing aside the passengers, among whom were many ladies and children, embarked [illegible] ship and all in her to their fate.

This accident explodes the [illegible] great iron ships are invulnerable. It has been said that if a wooden ship should collide with one of the great iron passenger steamers it would be brushed off, leaving the latter unharmed. Hereafter the big steamers will not feel so safe, and perhaps will give half the road more willingly than in the past. This accident also deals a staggering blow to the claim that steamers built in separate water tight compartments are in no danger of sinking. The Oregon was one of the most perfect of this type of steamers, but this fact did not save her from going to the bottom. It seems that with the enormous engines and boilers in use on steamships built for speed, it is not possible to protect the compartment containing them.

Another fact brought out by the Oregon disaster is the carelessness of steamship managers as regards means of saving life in case of accident. A New York paper in reporting this case declares that there were not small boats or rafts for much over 300 people. The capacity of the Oregon, steerage and all, was over 1600 passengers besides the crew, and in the busy season she doubtless frequently carried over a thousand people. The simple statement of these facts presents the situation with a clearness that needs no further illustration. What is true of the Oregon is substantially true of all the great ocean liners. Indeed the Oregon was one of the best equipped vessels of her kind afloat. It is safe to say that none of these vast ships leave the port of New York in the condition, with respect to small boats, etc., required by our laws. It may be doubted, indeed, if they could carry their full complement of passengers and comply with the law.

Mr. Holman's committee on Indian affairs which, it will be remembered, visited this state last year in the course of a general tour among the reservations, has prepared a bill to reorganize the Indian system. It proposes to break up the reservation and establish the Indians upon the "severalty" plan, to do away with the present training schools and to establish small manual schools among the Indian people. The objection made by Mr. Holman to educating Indian children at schools in the East is that when they return to their tribes the influences of savage life are too much for them and they relapse into barbarism.

The New York Times, another mugwump and administration paper, calls upon the president to cut away from the democratic congressmen, telling him that they are his "worst enemies," and that they should be "cleared away by a vigorous vindication of the independence of the executive, as that alone "will rescue his administration from its one great danger." Advice like this from the mugwump press greatly exasperates the democratic organs, and the Boston Globe, the leading democratic paper of New England, neatly admonishes Mr. Cleveland to remember that "no president has ever yet attempted with success to run counter to the wishes of his party, though several have tried it."

"Better wait awhile," says the Macon Telegraph, "and see what sort of hand Jones of Florida holds. 'We cannot believe,' it adds, "that a man of his experience would bluff so long upon a bobtail flush and stand so many 'raises.'" This is a touching though rather technical statement in the senator's favor, and deserves to be filed. They are talking of declaring his seat in the senate vacant, because he is never in it. But if he gets the two million dollar woman what does he care for a paltry five thousand a year.

The vitality of widows is what astonishes the officers of the pension bureau. There are still upon the pension rolls the names of [illegible] widows of soldiers of the war of 1812. Whether these figures suggest fraud, or develop the prevalence of a feeling which warns man to "beware of widders," or prove the doctrine that domestic quietude that is conducive to longevity is a question that political and social economists have not yet been able to decide.

The name of James C. Flood is mentioned as a suitable successor to the place in the United States senate vacated by the death of Senator Miller. His suitability consists in the fact that his immense wealth might be made to pay tribute to the party treasury, which has suffered a stringency since the withdrawal of Tilden from active politics, and the consequent nailing up of his barrel.

ANHAUSER—BUDWEISER

Mr. S. Julius Mayer of Fleckenstein & Mayer has just returned from San Francisco, where he met Mr. Busch of the Anhauser Busch Brewing and Bottling company, St. Louis, the largest institution of the kind on the continent. The interview resulted happily in an arrangement whereby Messrs. Fleckenstein & Mayer again become the sole agents in the Northwest for the famous beer brewed and bottled by the company above referred to. The beer is too well known to require any commendation at our hands. Car loads are now on the way, and being contracted for at the present low scale of freight rates the agents will be able to offer the trade better inducements than formerly. Dealers desiring orders promptly filled should notify Messrs. Fleckenstein & Mayer of this city verbally or by mail at once.

A QUESTION OF PERJURY.—Judge Deady yesterday delivered an opinion in the case of the United States against James A. Hearing, on a demurrer to the indictment. Hearing was indicted for perjury in [illegible] a homestead entry in [illegible] Linn county. The statute [illegible] a person seeking to make a homestead entry to make his application before the register and receiver of the district in which the land is situated. [illegible] an act of 1879 provided that where from sickness [illegible] or other disability the person wishing [illegible] was unable to go before the register or receiver, he should be allowed to swear to his affidavit before the clerk of the county in which he lived, but in such case it must [illegible] that he or some member of his family was living on the tract he sought to enter, and that he had made [illegible] In this case Hearing [illegible] before the clerk of Linn county, and in it he swore that he was residing on the land and had [illegible] [illegible] The indictment charged that this affidavit was knowingly false in these particulars. The demurrer was made that this [illegible] to require him to swear to these particulars and it did not therefore make any difference whether they were true or [illegible] It was held that although the statute did [illegible] these particulars [illegible] to be sworn to, yet as they had to be shown in some way before [illegible] [illegible] the oath [illegible] he might [illegible] and if he chose to do so and made it false it was perjury. The court [illegible] the demurrer [illegible] the defendant [illegible] [illegible] jury.

DRAFT HORSES [illegible]—Seventy-four [illegible] horses comprising [illegible] stock introduced by W. C. Myers [illegible] and Clydesdales have been [illegible] They were [illegible] Linn, Marion, Linn and Benton counties by Mr. [illegible] [illegible] None of the animals weigh less than 1400 pounds and the average [illegible] paid for them was [illegible] This is the second [illegible] of horses shipped [illegible] this valley [illegible] this spring. Mr. [illegible] formerly shipped horses from Iowa for his employers, but has found that the horses raised in the Northwest are better and more enduring than those of the states where they are fed on corn. He is the first eastern buyer of horses to visit the Willamette valley, and as he has [illegible] to suit him it is probable that others will follow. [illegible] [illegible] since [illegible] there has been a market for stock [illegible] all kinds at remunerative prices. Farmers [illegible] should [illegible] raising [illegible] horses [illegible] and it is probable that with the superior natural advantages of Western Oregon in climate and pasture [illegible] [illegible] branch of farming [illegible] this valley in the near future.

LIVE STOCK EAST [illegible] RAIL.—Shipping stock over the Northern Pacific [illegible] direct communication [illegible] and indications are that this branch of business over that road will be very heavy this year, say [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] cars of sheep and eight cars of horses had been shipped from Yakima [illegible] to Montana [illegible] [illegible] April. Arrangements [illegible] [illegible] Illinois and [illegible] Montana and Northwest Dakota. They have accordingly made a kind of stopping [illegible] at Miles City for early shipments of beef cattle. It is evident that there will be a very active [illegible] for all kinds of live stock. The road [illegible] several train loads of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] head of cattle and [illegible] Ainsworth [illegible] head.

THREATENING TO KILL.—A bootblack named Harry Landers who holds forth at the Holton house was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Higley on a warrant issued from Justice Davis' court, on a charge of threatening to kill Harry Coss. The story as told by Landers is that he has had trouble with his wife and that she left him. Sunday he went looking for her and this is said to be the time he had a row with Coss, although Landers denies knowing any such person or of having threatened him. Another [illegible] is that Landers has been abusing and beating his wife lately, and that she, through fear, has been with her baby hiding from him. Landers has been married four years and resides at [illegible] Madison street. He claims he works hard to support his wife and that she does not appreciate his efforts in her behalf. Judge Davis set Landers' case for trial at [illegible] o'clock this afternoon, and in default of $[illegible] bonds, committed him to the county jail. The prisoner offered to put up $40 cash for his appearance, but this was refused.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.—Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock the steamers Lurline and [illegible] Reed collided near St. John's. The Reed was on the way up from Astoria and the Lurline had left Portland at 3 o'clock for Vancouver. The Reed had some passengers for Vancouver and stopped to transfer them to the Lurline. The latter steamer ran alongside the starboard side of the Reed. Quite a breeze was blowing and the wind must have caught the Lurline as in coming alongside she struck the steamer Reed with unusual force, breaking away her guards and stanchions from the companion way to the point of the bow. The boats have transferred passengers from one to the other many times before and the occurrence yesterday was purely accidental. The Reed steamed up to the Ash street dock and ten carpenters were at once put to work to repair the damage. She will be able to make her regular trip to-day as usual. The steamer Lurline was not hurt any.

DIED IN THE CITY JAIL.—Alexander Nagle, a lodger at the city jail, died yesterday afternoon at [illegible] o'clock of a complication of diseases consisting of asthma, consumption and fever and ague. Nagle came to the city prison for lodging Tuesday night, and has been there ever since, being too sick to leave. Dr. Watkins has been prescribing for him. The first known of his death was when one of the prisoners knocked on the door and informed the captain of watch of the occurrence. When the remains were immediately removed to the morgue. Nagle was about 50 years of age and for a long time drove the [illegible] hotel coach at Salem. He came to Portland about a month ago with the intention of going to San Francisco, but his illness prevented his carrying out his original intention. While at the police station he spoke of George Leslie of East Portland as being one of his friends. It is likely that a coroner's inquest will be deemed unnecessary.

WRECKAGE FOUND.—Richard Carruthers while searching among the drift wood on the ocean beach a short distance south of [illegible] [illegible] found a portion of a bureau [illegible] Upon breaking it open he found a tin box containing a number of papers—some of which are in the Norwegian or Swedish language. Among the papers is an act of naturalization from the [illegible] district court of California to Jorgen Christensen. There is a letter and commission from J. Pimer, San Francisco, to Capt. Jorg Christensen directing him to assume command of the schooner Morning Cloud at Humboldt. The letter is dated October [illegible], 18[illegible]—more than [illegible] years ago. No one about here has heard of the wreck of a schooner Morning Cloud. Any one interested in these papers can have the same upon applying to Rich[illegible] and Carruthers, Oysterville, W. T.—Pacific Journal.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.—Mr. [illegible] Barrett, formerly of THE OREGONIAN, writing from San Francisco says: "I am now on the Oakland Times, and find many Oregon people in my rounds, among them the [illegible], Frank the stationer, Mike [illegible] [illegible] and others. Some are in desperate straits, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and Shipper are doing [illegible] well. [illegible] Portlanders [illegible] congratulate [illegible] so well fixed for it is dull here. [illegible] THE OREGONIAN is now on sale at the steamship [illegible] and Palace hotel and your friends appreciate the innovation."

W. C. T. U.—At the business meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday the following appointments were made: For president of the Band of Hope, Mrs. Patterson, with Miss Parrott continued as assistant. Miss Lila Bishop was elected chorister and Miss [illegible] Webb organist. Mrs. Sycaphoose was appointed superintendent for the White Cross department. Mrs. Hunter evangelistic superintendent. Mrs. M. Banker was appointed librarian and Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Dalgliesh and Miss Weedin committee of arrangements for the library.

A FACTORY BITE.—A morning contemporary publishing an item concerning the probable removal to this city of a Detroit man who proposes to establish a factory for the manufacture of excelsior adds with much ignorance: "There is no factory of this kind on the Pacific coast." There is an excelsior factory in Portland. It is owned by Adolph Nicolai and is situate on the macadam road near the city limits. He makes an excellent quality of the thread like wood used in the packing of furniture and is fully able to supply this market.

DEFENDING THEMSELVES.—The Chinamen who were driven away from their gardens in the vicinity of Guild's lake one night a short time ago keep a sharp lookout of nights now and being supplied with arms and backed by some deputy sheriffs are determined to protect themselves in future. A night or two since a tramp sought shelter in [illegible] He was detected and the barn surrounded until the fellow, taken prisoner, and held till [illegible] when [illegible] was dismissed with a warning.

THE RAILROAD WAR.—A private dispatch received here yesterday states that an effort was making, with good prospects of success, to have a meeting of all the transcontinental railway lines at Chicago on the 30th inst., for the purpose of patching things up. It is not hoped to re-establish the Transcontinental association, but there may be a truce and temporary restoration of rates.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—The immediate family and other relatives of the late S. A. Moreland have asked THE OREGONIAN in their name to thank their friends for numerous and gentle acts of kindness during their recent affliction. Sympathy from a whole community, expressed in various ways, has helped them to bear their burden of sorrow.

Funeral Services Yesterday—Resolutions of Condolence Adopted in the Police Court

Yesterday afternoon the remains of Samuel A. Moreland were laid to rest in [illegible] Fir cemetery. Services were held in the [illegible] Grace M. E. church, corner of Eleventh and Taylor, and though the day was stormy the building was crowded to overflowing with sorrowing friends. Among those were Judges Seneca Smith and [illegible] [illegible] but a large number of members of the bar, the members of Hope [illegible] Knights of [illegible], [illegible] Thomas [illegible] Knights [illegible] [illegible] Exempt Firemen's [illegible] the Indian War veterans, Police Judge Dement, City Attorney Tanner and the [illegible] police force of the city in a body. At [illegible] the remains were [illegible] the following gentlemen acting as pall bearers: C. A. Dolph, Richard Williams, [illegible] [illegible] James [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] man. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Rev. J. W. Caswell delivered [illegible] discourse [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

RESOLUTIONS [illegible]

On the convening [illegible] court [illegible] [illegible]

WHEREAS, The death of Hon. Samuel A. M[illegible] [illegible]

WHEREAS, [illegible] [illegible] one fitting manner to give expression to our [illegible] appreciation of the great worth and many virtues of the deceased; therefore be it

Resolved, That we have learned with deep regret of the sudden and wholly unexpected death of our late friend and long time associate, Judge Samuel A. Moreland.

Resolved, That while thus giving expression to our sorrow we at the same time [illegible] our [illegible] testimony to his high [illegible] integrity, gentleness of spirit and [illegible]

Resolved, That in the decease [illegible] of this city and state have lost an honored member, society a useful and respected citizen, his family a kind, loving, faithful husband and father.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the journal of this court and a copy thereof suitably engrossed be delivered to the family of the deceased, together with assurances of our most earnest sympathy in this their great bereavement.

Resolved, That as a token of respect we will so far as practicable attend [illegible] the funeral [illegible]

RALPH H. STOTT,
A. H. TANNER.

The court then considered the resolutions as adopted and ordered that they be spread upon the records of the court. Judge Dement then announced that he would be pleased to hear any remarks that any member of the bar might see fit to make concerning the deceased. Judge Stearns [illegible] and said:

If the court please, in paying this tribute to the deceased it is not easy thing to express [illegible] thoughts that enter one's mind. Mr. M[illegible] was a man peculiar to himself. He was a man that had strength of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] what place he was [illegible]

While he was [illegible] always acted upon his own judgment and [illegible] [illegible] What [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] his [illegible] honest judgment and which the [illegible] of any one who occupies an important position you are paying a high tribute.

It is no small matter to a community to lose such a man without any preparation whatever. But yesterday he was around among us in the courts and for aught that appeared then he might [illegible] that he knew his chances to be [illegible] were then apparently just as good as in the case of any of us. But death came to him with no warning and he passed away, and we feel assured that he was as much prepared to meet the stern messenger as many that have had months and weeks to await them [illegible] his approach. He was a man in every capacity as I said before that you could rely upon. It made no difference where you met him he was unassuming and you always found him the same in all places and circumstances, whether in court, in the newspaper office or in a public meeting. It was that kind of plain, every day man that wears, and the more and better you knew him the more you must necessarily think of him.

Following Mr. Stott, City Attorney Tanner made some eloquent and appropriate remarks, a few of which are here noted:

If the court please, the occasion reminds us that death has again invaded our ranks and stricken from among us our brother without warning to his friends and with but a slight signal of alarm to his dear ones he passed at God's command through the gates.

We saw him on the evening of his death appearing as well as ever. His death was sudden, unheralded and unexpected. So sudden the sad transit it came that many of us who had known him so long and well felt like saying from the depth of our souls, "Oh, for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still."

It is but just that in this court we should pause for a brief moment and pay to his memory that just tribute which it deserves, and to weave a garland of flowers to deck his untimely grave. Not an overdrawn eulogy, but that just need of praise which he earned by his upright life. Could he influence our words he would say, paint me as I am.

It is useless here to review the work and career of one whose life was spent among us. He met no hard hips that he did not overcome. He was subjected to no denials he did not cheerfully meet, and there is nothing left by his early struggles that may not be recounted with delight. Always patient, never faltering, his course was marked with success. Courteous, kind, generous, true to his friends and himself, his memory will live on through ages. To such a life there is no death, for it has been truly said, "To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

Following the above Mr. Caples and Judge Dement each paid his tribute to the memory of the deceased. Mr. Caples had known Mr. Moreland twenty-one years and Judge Dement had as city attorney been intimately associated with him. Each spoke kindly and well of the departed.

After the convening of the state circuit court yesterday morning in department No. 1 the members of the bar of this county held a meeting relative to the preparing of resolutions on the death of ex-Judge Moreland.

Judge Seneca Smith was chosen chairman and C. M. Idleman secretary. On motion of H. Y. Thompson a committee of three were appointed by the chair to draft resolutions and report the same for adoption at the convening of court this evening. The committee consisted of H. Y. Thompson, W. P. Willis and Alfred Frank. It was moved and carried that the members [illegible] to the memory of the deceased attend the funeral services. Adjourned.

THE STAGE.

THE MERRY WAR.—In spite of the rain and wind last night the Casino was crowded long before the curtain was rung up on The Merry War. The opera is bubbling over with the bright sparkling music which has made Johann Strauss's name a talisman in the ball room and sure drawing card on the light opera stage. As given by the Thompson Opera company last night it was a charming performance, and was received with a warmth no other opera has created since Prince Methusalem by Jeannie Winston's company captured Portland. The opera in itself is not dissimilar to that work, with its [illegible] quintettes and beautiful marches. The individual members of the company [illegible] and the choruses were very fine, showing [illegible] training. The finale of the second act called forth rounds of applause and three times was the curtain rung up and a portion of the dance had to be repeated. The musical gems of the opera fall to the share of the Marchese (Mr. Branson) and on worthy shoulders do they rest. His solo in the first act, "The Wiser One will Yield," was very well done and received several encores and again in the second act his solo "Nature loved she fair to see" was beautifully sung. Never has Mr. Branson appeared to better advantage or in better voice. The only fault, and that hardly fair to speak of in a man, was that the character of the Marchese calls for a more effeminate conception of the part than Mr. Branson gave it. Mr. MacCollin as Balthasar Groot, the tulip grower, made a capitally and in his handling of the part was very happy. This gentleman is most certainly a versatile actor. He is always well up in his lines and in the tulip song "From Holland" as also in his duets with Lisa (Miss Hall) he used his voice in a highly artistic manner. Miss Godfrey had very little opportunity to display her magnificent voice except in concerted numbers. The Blinding of the Eyes quintette in the first act and "I Am Yet Commander for To-day" in the last act were about her only chances. Miss Hall as Lisa, the tulip grower's wife, was a most charming picture of a Dutch peasant woman. At first she seemed to be a little nervous, but in her duet with Balthasar in the last act, she was quite herself again. Miss Vining made a dashing and as always a very pleasing "Artemesia," and in her solo "We'd Like to See the Foes," was captivating. Mr. Seamen as "Umberto," sang the score but evidently has not caught on to the idea yet and was a little uncertain in his lines at times. Miss May Branson made a charming Genl and led her Amazons in the grand march in the last act with great precision and effect. The opera was placed on the stage with all the detail of costumes and scenic effects possible. The costumes were particularly bright and pretty. "The Merry War" was a success and bids fair for a good run.

DISCOURAGED AGITATORS.

MONMOUTH, Polk Co., Or., March [illegible]

An agitator passed through this county last week, but failed to "agitate" worth a cent in this law and order community. He took into his services at Independence a man named White (don't know whether he is a brother of Al White or not) who circulated a paper asking citizens to sign it, boycotting the Chinese and meet with very poor success. One man said he thought he would sign it if White "would give him time to get his shirts from the China washhouse." One of our solid men on the Luckiamute was asked to sign it. He refused, saying he was compelled to hire Chinese sometimes because frequently his white laborers would get their wages Saturday night and [illegible] to the saloon and that would be [illegible] would see of them. Perhaps White will [illegible] the sentiment of the people and apply himself more closely to his business and less [illegible]

Nathon was formerly in the cigar and tobacco business on Third street in this city. Bigne sues to recover $600 which he claims to have advanced to Nathon at different times and Nathon says Bigne was a partner in the business.

It was C. [illegible] Cooper who got a judgment in Justice Davis' court against Potters [illegible] and B street laundryman, and not [illegible] Cooper as was stated.

In the cases of Elliott vs the Capital Flouring Mills company of Salem and Angus Shaw vs the same company plaintiffs allowed ten days to file amended complaint on motion of the defendant.

ANSWER FILED.

Emil Weber has filed his answer to the suit brought against him by L. D. Meyer. He denies that it was covenanted or promised to plaintiff that defendant would keep a hallway free and open for plaintiff's use or benefit, or that he has not the right to close the same. Denies further that the closet to be erected in the rear of Meyer's premises is or will be a nuisance. In fact [illegible] in law cases a general denial is made to all the allegations set forth in the complaint and a judgment for costs asked.

JUDGMENT AFFIRMED.

May 15, 18[illegible], R. C. Payne got a judgment in the state circuit court against George A. Beck for $1000. Beck took an appeal to the supreme court and the case was argued before that body in [illegible] last. Yesterday a mandate was received by the county clerk from the higher tribunal affirming the decision of the lower court and directing that Payne recover the $1000 and that the appellant pay the costs taxed at $41.[illegible] Payne sued for some $1400. NOTES FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

A New Railroad Bill Intended to Benefit the Pacific Coast and Territories—The Annexation of the Panhandle of Idaho.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible]

The committee on [illegible] the railroads have favorably considered a measure in connection with the Northern Pacific railroad of considerable local [illegible] one too which will result beneficially to the people in the states and territories through which it passes. It is intended to amend the act granting lands to the road so as to require the company to pay the costs of surveying and conveying the lands granted. The object is twofold: [illegible] the company to reimburse the land [illegible] which has been paid by the [illegible] government for the benefit of the railroad, which is [illegible] large sum, and [illegible] upon the Northwest [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] is enabled to avoid just state and territorial taxation. [illegible] [illegible] part of the land grant roads which is not [illegible] by the Northern Pacific. In fact [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in which case the government [illegible] survey [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the survey of these lands and then awaiting the pleasure of the company as to when it shall accept patents and pay to the United States the sums thus paid out was not contemplated by the acts of congress on the subject, works injustice in many ways and should no longer be continued.

RAILROADS WILL HAVE TO PAY THEIR TAXES.

As to the other branch of the subject, it is said by the committee that an urgent necessity exists for the passage of the law in hand. The decision of the supreme court leaves the lands of these companies to be used and speculated on by them until it sees fit to pay the costs and perfect title, the states and territories in which they lie in the meantime deriving no revenue therefrom. To meet this and finally pending any delay that may occur before the collection of the costs the bill contains a provision that after the lands have been surveyed by the government they will be subject to a lien for taxes imposed by the states and territories in which they are situated to the same extent they would have been if such costs were paid and the land finally conveyed. In any tax sale under this the United States preserves its first lien [illegible] all proper costs, etc., and when a patent issues upon any tax sale it operates only as an evidence of the tax title, and that title shall be subject to all the rights of the government in respect of the subsidy bonds issued by it in aid of the construction of the roads. This will remove the difficulties now existing without doing any injustice to anyone.

In attempting to determine the amount of land to which the company will be entitled the general land office is compelled to rely largely upon estimates. But here are the official figures presented: [illegible] [illegible] acres estimated [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Not only one half of the enormous grant to this road has been surveyed, [illegible] acres. More than one half of this land has been selected, to wit: [illegible] acres, while the company has had patents issued for only [illegible] acres. The estimated costs of surveying, selecting and conveying the lands which have been surveyed is the sum of $[illegible] while the estimated costs of surveying, selecting and conveying the unsurveyed portion of the subsidy will be $[illegible] A total which the government will be out under the bill of $1,41[illegible], and at the same time this enormous area of lands will be made [illegible] to local taxation.

THE ANNEXATION OF THE PANHANDLE.

It seems that the projected annexation of the panhandle of Idaho is not to be accomplished without a contest. The fight is to come in the senate. Already petitions have appeared against the proposition and finally Montana enters the field for a portion of the territory involved. This last has been brought forward by Senator Harrison of Indiana, who cannot be committed to its support, as he officially notified the senate that he simply did it by request, a term used by senators when they know nothing of the merits of a measure or do not support it, but only intend to oblige a friend by bringing it to the attention of the senate. This last project contemplates the following division of Western Idaho: All the portion north of the forty-seventh parallel of north latitude to be annexed to Montana, and all that portion south of said parallel and north of the following boundary: Commencing at a point in the middle of the main channel of Snake river due west of the head waters of Rabbit creek, thence due east to the headwaters of Rabbit creek, thence down the middle of Rabbit creek to its junction with Salmon river, thence up the middle of Salmon river to the junction with Horse creek, then up the middle of Horse creek to the junction of the east fork of said creek, thence up the middle of said east fork to the crest of the Bitter Root range of mountains, be annexed to Washington.

The last section of the measure provides that the county debt of Shoshone county, Idaho, shall be a legal charge upon that portion only of said county lying north of the forty-seventh parallel, which said portion shall be a county in Montana under the name of Coeur d'Alene county, and all that portion south of said parallel shall be made a part of Nez Perce county until otherwise provided by the legislative assembly of Washington.

COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, March 22.

Hard rains yesterday and again to-day until near the close, when there appears to be a possibility of clearing weather. Trade is generally quiet, but the goods movement does not fall off. Fruits and vegetables by steamer moved very freely, mostly at old prices.

Several Boston parties have lately been purchasing butter in the San Francisco market at 16@18c per pound and shipping to eastern cities. The freight is only $1 per hundred, which will enable them to deliver it there at about 20c per pound, having quite a profitable margin. About three car loads of roll and firkin butter have been forwarded since the railroad was opened and it is probable a good deal more will be disposed of in the same way.

WHEAT—All markets weaker and with us buyers will not duplicate bids of Saturday. But few sellers are in market at anything less than what could be had late last week so there is no trade passing. Best valley bid reported for wheat in any position then was $1 26 and no one is inclined to talk near this figure to-day. Chicago and New York are very irregular and evidence fright on part of holders, who have lately shown a disposition to close-out a great part of that long held.

Henderson Brothers' livery stable, being built on Third street, is large. It will be 60x100 feet over [illegible] 30 feet high and a large tank above the building will be filled by pumping.

The boycotting committee at Independence waited on Mr Cook the hotel keeper and asked him to sign a paper to refuse to employ Chinamen. He asked the committee if they would take the place of his Chinese cook. They declined, politely [illegible] any of their class fill the place. Mr Cook emphatically declined to sign their paper. [illegible]

The republican county central committee met at Lafayette last Friday and voted to call the county convention for April [illegible] and the primaries for April [illegible], represented as follows: East Chehalem [illegible], West Chehalem [illegible], North Yamhill [illegible], Grand Ronde [illegible], North McMinnville 6, South McMinnville [illegible], Bellevue [illegible], Sheridan [illegible], Willamina 3, Amity 4, Dayton [illegible], Willamette [illegible], Lafayette [illegible].

BULL RUN NOTES

LOWER SANDY, March [illegible].

Showers [illegible] and fogs and cold, roaming around [illegible] at night make camping out anything but agreeable. The weather has been very bad since we have been out here. It snowed on us last Tuesday and Wednesday. Snow fell to the depth of two inches and laid on the ground two or three days. We are slowly wending our way towards Portland and expect to reach that place in about eight or ten days. We are now camped at Snow's place. We will move camp some time next week to a point nearer home. Tall [illegible] barometer has run down, at any rate it cannot be relied on as a weather prophet. It has indicated fair weather all day to-day, and rain has been falling in torrents since early morn. The boys talk strongly of holding an inquest on the [illegible] thing and burying it with the honors of war.

Game is very plentiful in this vicinity and we have fresh meat all the time. This, however, is procured from the neighboring barnyards, as the majesty of the law, a lack of firearms and a constitutional dread of overexertion prevents us from pursuing the wild game into the forest fastnesses. Several deer were seen by our party yesterday, as well as large numbers of quail and pheasants.

Anti-coolie meetings, mass meetings and law and order leagues trouble us but little out here.

Yesterday was the first time we heard anything from Portland for a long time. All our news comes through the medium of THE OREGONIAN, and is eagerly sought after by all of our party. DEVILO.

ASHLAND NOTES

ASHLAND, March [illegible].

Peaches, apricots, nectarines and almonds in bloom and two inches of snow on the ground last Wednesday.

W E Hammon of California has a large force of men at work on the Anderson place, preparing for planting a large nursery.

Our Italian skies have been rather heavily laden with snow this week. The snow don't last long, however, when it reaches the ground it is soon gone.

The city fathers have ordered a sidewalk built, commencing at Main street, thence down First avenue to Spring street, down Spring to Fourth street, down Fourth street to the depot. This sidewalk is very much needed.

Notice has been given of two petitions for liquor license in Ashland to be presented to the city council at their next meeting. The temperance people of the town are making a strong effort to secure upon the remonstrance names enough to defeat [illegible] petitions.

The fine residence of B F Reeser was totally destroyed by fire about [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning. The building was 28 by [illegible] feet, two stories high, and situated in the south part of the town near the schoolhouse. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary as there was no one living in the house at the time and there had been no fire for several days. No insurance.

Swift's Specific for Lungs.

I am now 40 years old, and have suffered for the last fifteen years with a lung trouble. I have spent thousands of dollars to arrest the march of this disease, but temporary relief was all that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. A friend strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific, S. S. S., claiming that he himself had been greatly benefited by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. The results are remarkable. My cough has left me, my strength has returned, and I weigh sixty pounds more than I ever did in my life. It has been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, and I have no return of the disease. [illegible] weakness felt in my lungs. I do the hardest kind of mechanical work, and feel as well as I ever felt since I was a boy. These, I know, are wonderful statements to make, but I am honest when I say that I owe my existence and health to my use of S S S. I would be recreant to the duty I owe to humanity if I failed to bear this cheerful testimony to the merits of this wonderful medicine. T. J. HOLT.

Montgomery, Ala., June 25, 1885.
